

Economic Development Committee
Town of Bridgeville
December 2015 Update

There is now a video tour of Bridgeville on the town's website. This was produced by CGI Communications. Be sure to check out all four modules – it is only four minutes of your time.

At this writing, final plans are being made for purchase of the town's branding banners for Main and Market Streets. Updates will follow.

Steps are being taken to implement the painting of the walls of the barbershop and the Bridgeville Emporium that face town hall. Once the clean-up is complete a mural will be painted on the barbershop wall.

Moving forward the Committee will be working on various items as presented on the Downtown Master Plan Strategy Board.

A new member is joining the Economic Development Committee. We are pleased that Brenda Rambo from REMAX: Above & Beyond will be sharing her real estate expertise with the committee.

On Thursday, December 3 a ribbon cutting was held at the Sugar Beet Market in Heritage Shores. The Sugar Beet is a remarkable addition to Bridgeville. Stop by for specialty shopping and/or dining.

In January Rick Ferrell, a consultant sponsored by the Delaware Economic Development Office, will be meeting with the Committee to provide guidance on "best practices" to attract businesses and enhance those that currently exist in Bridgeville.

It is important to reiterate that this effort will only be successful if everyone in the community participates. If you know anyone interested in opening a business or wanting to invest in Bridgeville, please encourage them to contact Jesse Savage at town hall or any member of the Economic Development Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

Ruth Skala, Chairperson
Economic Development Committee
